Colorado---Its Natural Parks.

A correspondent of the Philadelphia Press gives a glowing account of San Louis Park, in Colorado Territory, which calls to mind the description in RASSELAS, of "The Happy Valley." This park was discovered by the Spaniards in the sixteenth century. It comprises nine thousand four hundred square miles of level land, (one-fifth the area of Pennsylvania.) At its extreme points it is two hundred miles long, by seventy-five wide. Its physical features are said to be peculiar and wonderfully attractive. It was evidently at one time the bed of a great inland sea, and is surrounded by towering mountains of majestic beauty, the Sierra Madre enclosing it on the East, and the Sierra Membras on the West. At nearly equidistant intervals these mountains are crowned with grand snowy peaks. Beyond these mountains, again, can occasionally be seen loftier snow-covered peaks, many miles distant, and, in the very centre of the park, rise a few mountains and buttes—like islands in the midst of the sea. The park is surrounded with numerous natural passes, through which communications with the external world may be established. Thirty-four small streams flow into this park, as also the Rio del Norte, which, as it approaches the Gulf of Mexico, marks the boundary line between Texas and Mexico. Nineteen streams in the Northern portion of the park flow into the Sahwatch Lake, which has no apparent outlet. The vast landscape, half of which can, on a clear day, be seen from any point, and all of which is visible from elevated points, is said to be of incomparable magnificence and beauty. "Here," says the writer, "is a valley larger than many of the eastern States, enclosed by ranges and peaks, rising from five to seven thousand feet above its surface, and from thirteen thousand to fifteen thousand feet above the sea, any one of which would attract myriads of visiters, if it were located East of the Mississippi." The natural fertility of the soil is great, and is much aided by the waters of Lake Sahwatch, that recipient of numerous streams, whose boundaries being expanded in the Spring and contracted in the Summer, irrigate millions of acres of splendid grass lands, which would afford pasturage to vast numbers of cattle and sheep. It is said that one thousand mowing machines, kept busy cutting grass the whole Summer, would make no sensible impression upon it. The grasses produced are various. Among them are prominent the bunch and buffalo grasses, which grow on the high places; whilst in the rich savannahs and meadows, adjoining the streams, grow a variety of long nutritious grasses, equal or superior to the finest natural grasses of the Atlantic States. There are extensive groves of timber, chiefly pinon, pine and cedar, which, skirting the mountain sides, furnish a shelter from the winds and snows of winter, and make it practicable, with but little trouble or expense, to rear and fatten immense flocks and herds.—There is an endless profusion of magnificent trees—cottonwoods, willows, &c., flowers, wild fruits, berries and delicate shrubbery, growing upon the banks of the streams that descend from the mountains and flow through the plains. The spontaneous production is said to be truly marvellous at all those points accessible to water. The mountains sides are covered with a magnificent growth of all the varieties of fir, aspen, cedar, hemlock, juniper, cottonwood, box-elder, &c. Of wild fruits there are many varieties, including gooseberies, red, yellow, black and white currants, white and red plums, raspberries, strawberries, the service berry, wild grapes, wild asparagus, potatoes and clery, camart, biscuit root, yampa and arrow root. There is a great abundance of game, consisting of deer, antelope, elk, bears, wolves, jack-rabbits, squirrels, badgers, mountain sheep, otter and beavers. Birds are equally abundant, such as robins, sparrows, magpies, jay-birds, sparrow-hawks, mountain grouse, wild turkeys, ravens, partridges, quails, black-birds, ptarmagins or snowy pigeons, eagles, and, near the lake, mud hens, ducks and other aquatic birds.

This favored spot is supposed to contain great mineral wealth, such as gold, silver and copper. There are traces of ancient mines worked by the Spaniards. Little is as yet absolutely known of the extent of its mines and minerals. The climate is represented to be exceedingly healthy and agreeable. The heat of the summer is tempered by the breezes from the mountains, and the cold of the winter by a dry atmosphere and the sun of a southern latitude (below 38 degrees), which make an agreeable climate at all seasons. Provisions are cheap and abundant, as are also sheep and cattle. The soil is peculiarly adapted to the growth of wheat, barley, oats, potatoes, onions, turnips, rutabagas, beans, &c. The bulk of the population is Mexican. Interspersed among them are a few American merchants and mechanics, nearly all of whom accumulate wealth rapidly. The great natural advantages of this region must soon attract to it a large emigration.

To accomplish the union of the States has been the labor of the President by day and by night. And now that he has nearly reached his goal, shall he be told by Congress, whose enactments helped to arm him with all the powers he has exerted—shall he be told by them "This work shall recede. It shall be delayed. It shall be done over and in another form by us, and at some future day!" And this because our party did not do it, because Congress did not originate it. This because fanaticism desires negro suffrage to be forced by Federal power on the Carolinas, while it will not tolerate such usurpation among themselves. This because pettifoggery thinks itself capable of mistifying the anomalous national case with the tricks that charlatans can eke out of the noble legal profession!—National Intelligencer.

BRAZIL.—Considerable attention has been attracted towards this country of late. The following brief paragraph, taken from the Whig, recapitulates in a few words what has recently been said at great length:

Brazil is an independent empire, possessing a fertile soil, a delightful climate, a liberal constitution, a free press, trial by jury, institutions of learning, liberal suffrage, and tolerance in religion. Any free man, whatever his color, provided he has $60 a year income, can vote.—A slave can compel his master to sell him his freedom at a fair valuation. The external slave trade has been abolished, and steps are being taken by the government towards early universal emancipation.

General Halleck, the founder of the New York Journal of Commerce, died on the 4th instant.

BEING MADE OF THE BEST MATERIAL AND in the most approved manner, it is recommended to the public as superior to any other in the market. All who have used it speak of it in the highest terms of praise, and those engaged in its manufacture will continue their best endeavors to advance the high reputation which it has acquired.

Messrs. B. H. Allen & Co., the well known manufacturers of agricultural implements, say of it:

"We take pleasure in stating that we have sold E. F. Coe's Super-Phosphate of Lime for four years—It has given universal satisfaction to our customers. We most cheerfully endorse it as an article worthy of the confidence of the public, and the purchaser may rely upon securing an article honestly and carefully manufactured.

"We would state that, after careful examination, we believe this Phosphate has been improved each year since its introduction in this market, and that it will continue to maintain its present high standing.

IMPORTANT SALE.

ON WEDNESDAY, THE 24TH OF JANUARY, 1866, I shall offer for sale, my plantation in Bertie County, lying on the Roanoke River, three miles from Hill's Ferry on said river, and six from the village of Woodville in Bertie County, containing 1000 acres, more or less; 500 acres cleared and well adapted to the growth of cotton, corn, wheat, &c.

There is a very fine opportunity to make a large cotton crop on the plantation the next year, as there is compost enough ready made, to manure nearly 100 acres. The plantation made in 1861, 43,000 pounds of lint cotton, and 4,000 bushels of corn; and, with proper management, will do great deal better for the next year, as the most of the cotton land has had rest for the past two years. A very great advantage which this farm has, is its convenience to transportation, being only one mile to a good landing on the river, where there is a regular line of steamers to Norfolk weekly. In addition to the above, this is the only river farm in this portion of the county that has fire wood enough, conveniently for use; there is an abundance here, and timber of almost every kind, cypress, oak, hickory, ashs gum, &c. Lumber dealers would do well to examine the land before the day of sale.

There are about 400 or 500 acres on this tract uncleared, which affords a fine range for hogs, and a free access to numberless acres of uncultivated lands renders it very profitable for the raising of cattle, colts, &c.

The improvements consist of a gin house and cotton screw, overseer's house, cabins enough for 25 or 30 laborers, corn barns, &c. At the same time and place, I shall sell 200 or 300 barrells of corn, fodder, mules, horses, hogs, farming utensils &c.

Terms for the land: one third cash, the balance in two equal instalments, payable respectively in 12 and 18 months, and title withheld until payments made. For the perishable property, cash.

For any further particulars, address the subscriber at Enfield, Halifax county, N. C.

THE PEOPLE must be trusted with their Government, and if trusted, my opinion is that they will act in good faith, and restore their former constitutional relations with all the States composing the Union.—Andrew Johnson's Letter to Gov. Sharkey, of Mississippi.

Impeachment of the President.

We mentioned, a few days since, the rumor that the radical hostility to the President had attained the pitch of threatening him with impeachment. We had no idea, however, that the matter had actually assumed substantial form. We see, however, that a memorial to Congress is actually being extensively circulated throughout the North, asking the impeachment. The memorial is said to have been prepared in New England, (of course,) and very likely under the joint inspiration of Sumner and Andrew,—a precious pair. The following is given as a synopsis of the paper:

"The memorial states that not only has the President adopted a reconstruction policy, 'the manifest effect and object of which is to exclude Congress from having any lot or part in the settlement,' but, by 'pursuing his own impracticable and ruinous scheme, he has given the lie to all his former professions; has mocked at and insulted justice and law, degraded the dignity of his great office, and is, as far as he can, restoring to all their former rights the unrepentant enemies of the Republic, and arming them anew with power, as if it were his purpose to reconstruct, not the Republic, but the rebellion.' 'The pardoning power,' we are told, 'has, in his hands, become a means to abolish justice for the public ruin.' He is keeping the negro in a condition 'more oppressive even than slavery itself;' he is securing the interests of a 'treacherous, landed aristocracy,' while 'the freedom-loving people of the North behold themselves cheated of all the legitimate fruits of their enormous sacrifices.' The memorialists then say: 'To leave in office three years longer a man who thus abused his power by creating conditions that carry with them the germs of another civil war, the undersigned consider treason to the republic. They deem it necessary, therefore, that this man, on account of the violations of the Constitution under which he holds his authority, on account of misgovernment, and on account of his contempt for the laws of Congress, shall be impeached and removed from his office.' The memorial concludes with the assertion that the 'nation has a right to know whether its first servant is appointed as an autocrat, or as a republican officer.'

From such a movement, as the Richmond Whig well observes, the President has nothing to fear. It is the last resort of foiled malignity, and will rally to his support all the sound men throughout the country. The more closely his reconstruction policy is enquired into, the higher will he stand in public estimation. We derive no inconsiderable consolation from the fact, that such frantic displays must also tend to widen and deepen the gulf of separation between the extreme radicals and the reflecting and conservative men in the Republican party.

Does it not occur to those men in the South, who are constantly raising doubts as to the fitness of their own people for restoration, that they are themselves bringing into discredit the judgment and policy of the President, and thereby playing directly into the hands of Sumner, Stevens & Co.? They are doing so, much more effectually than if they were to sign the memorial for impeachment. We would recommend the latter course as decidedly the more manly.

MONROE DOCTRINE IN NEW YORK.—A meeting of sympathy for Mexico, Chili, Peru, and St. Domingo, or Monroe Doctrine Meeting, as it was called, has been held at Cooper Institute, New York, and was a great success. The hall of the institute was crowded, and much enthusiasm was displayed. Speeches were made by the President, W. C. Bryant, Esq., Vice Presidents Theodore Tomlinson, S. S. Cox, Senor Vicunna McKenna, the Chilian Envoy, and others. Letters expressing strong sympathy with the objects of the meeting were received and read from numerous army, naval and civil officers of the government, including, among others, Generals Sickles and Garfield, Speaker Colfax, of the House, Congressmen J. H. Lane, John A. Kasson, Nesmith, Baker, and many others. The meeting adjourned at a late hour, after passing resolutions endorsing the President, and calling a second meeting on the proper notice from the President.

THE THREAT of the Standard to appeal to the President for the re-commitment of Gov. Vance to the old Capitol prison, and his summary trial for treason, simply because some enthusiastic friends will praise him and won't praise Gov. Holden, is not only ridiculous within itself, but is a direct insult to Mr. Johnson. Does that paper have the effrontery to presume that the President will be influenced by such paltry considerations? He has graver issues to attend to than the private griefs of the Raleigh Standard.

SUPREME COURT.—We are authorized to state that the Judges of the Supreme Court will assemble in this city, on Tuesday, the 16th inst., to appoint a Clerk, a Reporter and Marshal, and to examine applicants for license.

The extensive Factory property of Col. Childs, in Lincoln Co., in possession of the U. S. authorities for some time past, has, we learn from the Charlotte papers, been restored to the owner—he having been pardoned by the President.

THE TWO EXTREMES.—Those who assert or intimate that any portion of the Southern people are disloyal to the Government of the United States are wrong, while those who intimate that the great mass of our people love the Government of the United States or the Northern people are equally wrong. The Southern people, almost without a single exception, will hereafter prove as loyal to the Government as any men in it, but they cannot, at present, love it, and never will love it until the treatment towards them is changed. Immediately after a bloody and protracted war, in which passion and prejudice were aroused to the greatest extent, it would be barefaced hypocrisy in us, as a people, to pretend that we love the Federal Government or the Northern people. If we were to make such a profession, we presume no Northern man of any discernment would believe us. But while we do not love them, we intend to observe our obligations in good faith and obey the laws enacted by the powers that be, remembering that we are subjugated and that it is our duty to submit.

If the Government wants to win the affections of the Southern people, let it withdraw military rule from over them and restore them to all their civil rights; let it refrain from collecting taxes from them while they are unrepresented and have no voice in the Government; let it remove its agents and officers from the South who are going over the country annoying the people. And if it expects the Southern people to fight for the Government in a war with England, France, or any other power, let it tender commissions to Gen. Lee, Gen. Johnston, and other competent and reliable officers who fought on the Southern side in the late war. Then we might expect good feeling to exist between the two sections, and a sort of "brotherly love" prevail! The southern people may forgive if they are forgiven and treated as equals in the Union.

We are for "harmony," and respectfully submit the above suggestions, with the hope that President Johnson and all others in authority will give them a favorable consideration, and at once produce among all our people that noble emulation of who can best work and best agree! If the Government will trust the people of the South and treat them as freemen, everything will work right hereafter.

The above we clip from the Charlotte Democrat. It is an honest expression of opinion, and contains much truth. While we have steadily maintained the loyalty of our people, and their desire for Union and harmony, we have never assumed, which would be arrant hypocrisy, that any portion of our people were running over with love for the Northern people who are disposed to oppress them. The government, however, administered according to the principles of the constitution, no friend of civil liberty can hate.

But there is in the above an intimation that the government is disposed to treat the South unjustly or tyrannically. The Democrat does not mean that, and qualifies it by the phrase, "or the Northern people." We entertain a more charitable opinion of the "government." There are parties in Congress, and in the Supreme Court, perhaps, and members of the Cabinet, who, influenced by erroneous views of the actual state of things in the South, and lacking that "charity which hopeth all things," are really hostile and bitter towards the Southern people, and whose bitterness prompts them to treat us unjustly and unkindly; but this spirit, we think, is not chargeable upon the "government." President Johnson is the leading, controlling power of the government, and, so far as he can, he trusts the South, and is kindly disposed to us.

But why is it that the government does not withdraw military rule, and the Freedmen's Bureau, and admit our members to Congress, and treat us in all respects as the Democrat says it should do, in order to gain the affections of the Southern people? It is only nine months since the surrender. The war engendered the worst feelings. The bitterness of Sodom still rankles in the bosoms of those, whose fanaticism on the subject of slavery has poisoned their spirits. The ghosts of millions of revengeful Southern slave-lovers still haunt their imaginations. They snuff treason, and riot and rebellion, still, from every Southern breeze. The Southern people know that all these raw-head and bloody-bone apparitions are but apparitions and nothing else; yet many of them are as honest as any poor raving maniac in our Lunatic Asylum, who talks passionately of his millions.

And whose fault is it? The masses of the Southern people know they are loyal. They have sworn before high Heaven to be loyal, and yet these Northern ultras do not believe a word of it. And why? Because, here in our own midst, among our own people, the charges are daily rung in their ears, and reiterated in the most earnest manner, that the Southern people are disloyal—that North Carolina is disloyal, and that only those, who belong to that class of so called Union men who are of the "straightest-sect," are loyal and can be trusted. Who can blame Northern people, when our own Southern presses and Southern people are daily ringing it in their ears, that the secessionists and the war men, and those whom the people are willing to trust, are all disloyal and hate the government, and would still destroy it if they could? Put the load on the right horse, friend Yates, and then crack your whip.

Oil in West Virginia.

The Parkersburg Gazette gives the following astonishing account of the yield and value of three wells on White Oak Fork of Walker's Creek, West Virginia:

There are but three wells pumping, the Harkness, Longmoor and Scott; all within a distance of one hundred rods. The wells, as accurately as we estimated on the ground, yielded as follows—Longmoor's well 40 barrels per day; Scott's from 30 to 150 per day, depending on the steam power; and Harkness' well from 250 to 280 barrels; making in all an average of 360 barrels daily.

The oil is all of the heaviest lubricating quality, 26 to 28 baume. Its estimated value at the well is set down at fifty dollars per barrel. But if we drop it to thirty-five dollars, about the price of the Handlin oil of the same quality, we have from these three wells a yield of about $12,000 daily, or $75,000 per week, or $300,000 per month, or $3,600,000 yearly!

The same writer says that of twenty-eight wells put down at Burning Springs, on the Kanawha, this season, twenty are successful. Such an average of success has no equal in any oil region in the world.

General W. J. Hardee and Colonel J. Gorgas are recommended by the Selma papers for the posts of president and chief superintendent of the Selma and Meridian railroad.

Shame! Where is thy blush?

It is a trite and very homely, but none the less true, adage, that "it is an ill bird that befouls its own nest." It was never more peculiarly applicable than to the case of those men in our own midst, who are constantly impugning the loyalty of their own fellow citizens. It is hard enough, and unjust and ungenerous enough, for Carl Schurz and his red and black Republican confreres to do this, but it passes comprehension to think that any citizen of North Carolina can lend his voice to the shameless aspersion.

After having submitted, in good faith and with cheerful acquiescence, to all the requirements of the constituted authorities; after having, not simply repealed, but declared null and void, at all times, the ordinance of secession; after having repudiated the debt contracted for war purposes; after having passed the constitutional amendment forever inhibiting slavery within her limits; after having, in one word, come fully up to every demand that has been imposed upon her in the exigency in which the failure of her struggle left her, North Carolina presents herself for recognition as an honest integral member of the Union. The President concedes her claim and magnanimously and unqualifiedly endorses it. It is reserved for one of her own citizens to say that she is "unfit to be the associate, in the Union, with the loyal States of Pennsylvania and Ohio!" And why? We hang our own heads with shame when we give the poor, selfish and unsubstantial reason that is assigned:

"If Gov. Holden is not Governor "by the votes of the people, it is because a majority of our people are not attached, as they should be, in spirit and in truth, to the Federal Union."

Independently of the nobler and more exalted considerations that should influence men, in this hour of need and of sore trial, it is really marvellous that they should be so reckless of contemporary and future opinion. The time will come, when the very existence of such recreancy, at such a time, will be deemed as improbable as that of one of the fabulous monsters of antiquity.

Rent Extortioners.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—I have been pleased, both with the remarks of your own, and the articles I have seen from time to time copied by you, from other journals, relative to the extortionate prices at present exacted in this and other Southern cities for rents.

There is one idea connected with these high rents, that I hope will not be overlooked. It is this: If I mistake not, it is customary, in most cities, to have annual assessments of the real estate within the corporate limits, with a view to taxation, upon the adzalorem principle.

Now, it has heretofore, been customary, for property to rent for about 10 per cent, upon its estimated value. In this way, a house and lot that rented for $100 per annum was considered worth $1000 and so on.

Now, if a tenement and lot rents for $1000 or $1,500, it is but carrying out the old custom to value it for taxation, for public purposes, as worth ten times the yearly rent. Let our city assessors for this year enquire, in fixing the value of tenements, the prices paid for them, and let them be taxed accordingly.

CITIZEN.

FROM WASHINGTON.

The Basis of Representation---Future Political Power of the South---Congress and the President.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9, 1866.

[Correspondence of the Baltimore Sun.]

Universal assent appears to be given to the proposition, that if the States lately rebellious be restored to rights of representation according to the Federal basis, or to the basis of numbers enlarged by the enumeration of all blacks in the next census, the political power of the country will pass into the hands of the South, aided, as it will be, by Northern alliances. The South claims that this will be the fact, and the North does not dispute it. It is assumed, on one side, that this alliance will necessarily be ruinous to the country, and on the other, that it will be beneficial. However that may be, the North is not prepared to risk the experiment.

Political movements here, in and out of Congress, are now directed to one great object—the adoption of some scheme of restoration and representation which will command the assent of Congress, with the co-operation of the President. It will be some time before Congress can itself arrive at any conclusion, and, meanwhile, the lately rebel States will remain unrepresented, except Tennessee, and the test oath in application to members of Congress will be unrepealed.

From the present aspect of matters it would seem probable, that an attempt to reconcile conflicting views will be made, upon the plan of so amending the Constitution as to base representation upon the number of voters in each State, the rule to be universal. An effort will be made to carry this amendment in Congress by the requisite majority, if the President will so far countenance it as to promise his influence to procure its ratification by the Southern States, which, it is assumed, will do anything that the President may advise. The act proposing the amendment does not require the President's assent. Twenty-five States may be counted for the amendment, but not twenty-seven, as yet.

The joint committee on reconstruction, consisting of six members of the Senate and nine of the popular branch, held a caucus yesterday morning in one of the Senate committee rooms, Senator Fessenden, the chairman, presiding. The meeting was protracted, and the views of its members were freely interchanged. A very decided change of views relative to the admission of Southern representatives has taken place since the adoption of the famous Stevens caucus resolution. The interest manifested by the President upon this vital measure is the true groundwork for such change of sentiment. It is the understanding of many that a sub-committee will be chosen to visit the late rebellious States and make a report prior to the adoption in Congress of any proposition to admit the representatives. The President does not pretend to cloak his dissent from the action of Congress in excluding Tennessee from her due representation, when the executive functions of the Union are wielded by one who hails from that State, and claims a residence nowhere else.

NEW YORK, January 7.—At his late interview with the Fenian Convention, General Sweeney stated that a month ago he advised and urged Col. O'Mahoney to open a correspondence with General Phil. Sheridan, for the purpose of placing him at the head of the Fenian army, and offering himself to take any subordinate position under Sheridan, provided the latter would accept the leadership.

ELIZABETH CITY, Jan. 5, 1866.

TO THE EDITORS OF THE SENTINEL: The New Year came in clear and bright, pleasantly in contrast with the damp, gloomy close of its illustrious predecessor. Sun-shine over head, mud and mire under foot; but the latter were insufficient to prevent our sable "fellow-citizens" from celebrating, with pomp and show, and "becoming spirit," the anniversary of their freedom and independence. For several weeks previous, the notes of busy preparation for this grand jubilee were heard coming from every nook and corner of the county; old and young, great and small, high and low, male and female, the halt, the lame and the blind, shades of color from the polished black to the dull copper, were all pregnant with high hopes and huge anticipations. Faces were radiant with smiles, and the broad laugh distorted many a countenance, making the display of ivory "grand and imposing."

The day arrived at last, and with it came the ladies and gentlemen, with their interesting little offspring, pouring, like an ink stream, into this burnt, dilapidated and desolated little town. Beauty was adorned with gay dresses, hats and feathers, and the splendid figures of our new citizens made broad-cloth look finely and the sailor's art conspicuous. All were as merry and happy as children generally are at the possession of a bauble without knowing its value or its use. And they celebrated the day with a grand procession; for this they were not blameable—it was a natural exhibition of gladness for their freedom. They behaved themselves—with some exceptions—and this was commendable. Addresses were delivered, and to these I wish to call attention, as showing the character of the instructions which they are receiving from Northern missionaries.

As it is at other places, so it is here, that the negroes are cursed by the presence of a set of New England fanatics, male and female. These creatures are a poison more deadly to the peace and happiness of the blacks than the famed Upas to those that came within its influence. They pretend to teach them their letters, but they teach them ideas and implant within their bosoms feelings, that, if unchecked, will ripen into a harvest of blood and murder.

One of these, a vile, fat bloated, brazen-face, hypocritical offshoot of Puritanism, has assumed the temporal and spiritual guardianship of the colored part of the population, and, unfortunately, has acquired an influence over them which enables him to sway them as he wills.—The impertinence and effrontery of this man are beyond conception, and would be an impossibility in any member of the human family, save a New England Yankee. The presence of white men does not deter him from uttering his vile slanders to inflame the passions of the negroes against them; and, indeed, to do this, seems to be the end, aim and object of all his labors. This sleek and smooth-faced incendiary was the principal speaker to the large mass of blacks, which he had industriously labored to bring together, and his speech, on this occasion, differed from his previous efforts only in being more violent and inflammatory. To excite the passions of his audience against the whites he directed his strength and his energies, and his language was well calculated to foster a spirit of hatred and to beget a desire for revenge which, sooner or later, must be gratified with blood and slaughter. And here let me remark, that, as an evidence that I do not misunderstand or misrepresent the intentions and objects of this man, he disclosed to a prominent gentleman of this place, that the negroes must have their rights, or the result would be another war—which the last was nothing in comparison. Admitting that the evil tendency of such teachings and such inflammatory appeals were not known to the officials previous to the harangue on the 1st of January, the evidence brought out on that day should have caused prompt and immediate measures of suppression.

Under the promptings of this incendiary teacher and the stimulus applied to the latent feelings of the negro, arose one, formerly a soldier in the United States service, and declared his determination to battle for his rights, political, civil, religious, and social, even to the use of steel and powder. "I," said he, "will go to the door of Congress and demand these rights, and, if they are not granted, the clashing of steel and booming of cannon will again be heard. For my part," he continued, "I am now ready to throw off my coat and go in." Social rights and privileges, he contended, would come to them upon the possession of 'green backs, for, with these, he would enter any gentleman's parlor, the acknowledged equal of his family. Here was wrought boldly threatened against the United States government by a negro, in the event of a refusal on the part of Congress to acquiesce in their modest demands; but the officers of the government could see nothing in it to call for the exercise of their authority. I attach no importance to the threat, only as showing the spirit which is getting possession of the poor blacks under the schooling of one who is regarded by them as their leader, chief, and friend; as the God chosen apostle to direct them in the way that leads to the land of promise, equality with the white man; a spirit which may exhibit itself in some individual act of violence and produce consequences fearful to contemplate.

This is no sensation letter, nor are the above statements fiction; they are startling facts, and can be attested by some of the most respectable gentlemen in the county. I have no fear of an insurrection; neither do I apprehend violence from the blacks, if left to themselves.—The majority are disposed to behave well and orderly. And certainly there is no want of inclination on the part of their former masters to treat them kindly and protect them in their freedom. To be the equal of the white man is an impossibility, and the negro is not ignorant of the fact; he would accept it as an established and unalterable truth, the decree of the God that made him, if cut off from the poisonous inoculations of these festering sinks of pollution and iniquity. But with these ever around and about him, he must and will at last yield to their fatal influence. The negroes are armed and the temptation to offer violence is thus increased; once offered and the die is cast, and then—God save us from the scene that will follow! One unguarded act of aggression, on the day mentioned, by the blacks, would have precipitated a conflict, for many of our people exasperated by the language used by the speakers, would, I fear, have been more under the control of their feelings than their reason; the result I need not mention. A spark was all that was wanting to produce an explosion; fortunately that spark was wanting. But it will not long be wanting, if the negro is to continue the deluded victim of these white-washed infidels; evil counsels will do their work effectually and speedily. Let those in authority entrusted with the freedmen's welfare look to this matter, ere it is too late.

And, in conclusion, let me say, that the desire of all intelligent and right thinking men is, to have the blacks educated; the interest of the white man demands it; by the force of arms they have been made free, and we have accepted the result as final; ignorance is a dangerous enemy, if bad men are its leaders; they are so at present, and should be driven out. Educate the negro, but educate him in a proper manner, and by those who know him best.

CITY AND STATE ITEMS.

OUR ADVERTISING COLUMNS.—It will be seen that

Messrs. Harriss, Gaines & Co., call attention to the "Southern House," 20 Beaver St., N. Y. One of the firm, Mr. Gaines, is a North Carolinian.

Messrs. Iredell and Tredwell have dissolved copartnership, and Mr. Iredell, contemplating a change of business, offers his stock for sale cheap.

A lady in Caswell County, competent to give instruction in the useful and ornamental branches, seeks a situation. Address Rev. Solomon Lea, Leasburg

The enterprising firm of Parsley & Co., of Wilmington, announce large consignments of molasses.

Baker, Cowper & Co. advertise superior Rye Whiskey and other articles.

Charles Latham, Adm'r, gives notice to creditors and debtors of the estate of J. J. Lindsey, dec'd.

Notice of application to the Legislature for an Act to incorporate the "Carolina Joint Stock Insurance and Trust Co." is given.

J. M. Towles advertises an important Auction for Saturday, and also Cotton Yarns, Lime, Mess Pork, &c.

THE REVENUE LAW.—A meeting of the merchants and traders of Wilmington, who are disposed to test the legality of the revenue tax ordinance, passed by the late Convention, was held on Tuesday last. The city papers of the next day, however, give no account of what occurred or what course it was determined to pursue.

We publish, by the way, on our fourth page, at the request of subscribers, an official copy of the ordinance in question.

MUNICIPAL ELECTION IN CHARLOTTE.—The Charter elections took place in Charlotte on Tuesday last, and resulted in the choice of S. A. Harris, Esq., as Mayor, by a large majority.—The following gentlemen were chosen Commissioners, viz: Jno. Wilkes, Allen Cruse, J. L. Brown, R. M. Oates, A. A. Taylor, M. D. S. Moody, H. L. Alexander and Wm. Harty.

ALL RIGHT AGAIN.—The bridge over the Neuse, near Smithfield, is completed, and the trains on the N. C. Railroad are now running through without hindrance.

The CAROLINA WATCHMAN has been revived under the control of its former Editor, J. J. Bruner, Esq. Mr. Bruner has had long experience as a public journalist, and will, doubtless, make the Watchman full worthy as ever of the public confidence.

CASUALTIES.—Mrs. William Lilly, of Montgomery county, was drowned, a few days since, while returning from Salisbury to her place of residence. This occurred while attempting to ford a branch of a creek, swollen by the recent rains. Her carriage was drawn into the current, the force of which upset it, and Mrs. L., her little son and the driver were thrown upon the mercy of the rushing waters. The little boy and the driver escaped drowning by clinging to overhanging limbs. Mrs. Lilly was a most estimable lady, and leaves a husband and five children.

Benjamin Caise, of Salisbury, was killed, in that place, on Monday last, by falling to the ground from the top of a house, from which he was endeavoring to lop off the limb of a tree.

THE ROANOKE RIVER, at Gaston, was frozen over, on Tuesday last, so that passengers, freight and mails could not be transferred from train to train on either side. The ice was too thick to admit the passage of the ferry-boat, but too thin to bear the weight of passengers.

The SALISBURY BRASS BAND has been again organized under the tutorship of Prof. Neave, and promises to become, according to the Banner, the best band in the State. We know Prof. Neave well, and, as a teacher of music and skilful performer, he has few equals.

REV. JNO. N. ANDREWS.—It will be interesting to the many friends of this gentleman to learn, that he is about to leave Wilmington for the North, for the purpose of soliciting contributions to assist in the re-establishment of the Seaman's Home, in Wilmington.

HON. CHAS. H. SMITH, (BILL ARP).—A correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer gives a sketch of the inimitable humorist, whom the confidence of his people recently sent to the State Senate:

Speaking of Senators, one member of the State Senate is so well known, at least by his nomme de plume North, as to render it perhaps not altogether uninteresting to give some account of him. This, C. H. Smith, of Rome, is the celebrated "Bill Arp." Tall, stoutly built, with black eyes, hair, and beard, slightly bald and of rather a grave expression of countenance, the remark is often made by visitors that he is about the last man in the house one would take for the author of that inimitable appeal to the great Artemus. Mr. Smith is a lawyer of fine abilities, and in social intercourse a very interesting gentleman, when shaking off what seems an habitual reserve. Often, however, when saying least, an arch curve of the lips will betray beyond mistake some facetious thought is flitting through the brain of the Unharmonized father of Chickahominy and Bull Run Arp.

Gov. Graham.

We see our distinguished EX-Governor and present Senator on our streets. He appears to be in the enjoyment of good health and fine spirits. We hope he will soon be at his post in the Senate of the United States, where, we are convinced, he will do his duty honestly and faithfully, and uphold the rights and advocate the wishes of his constituents. Success to him and his efforts! We look upon him as one of nature's noblemen—as an honest man—that "noblest work of God."—Charlotte Times.

General News.

General Brannan, U. S. A., is disarming the negroes in and around Augusta, and General Tillson, F. B., is compelling them to make contracts for labor.

A tornado prevailed on the 26th ult., on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, in the neighborhood of Humbolt, blowing down houses, trees, &c.

Lieutenant General J. B. Gordon is going into the lumber trade at Brunswick, Georgia.

Ex-Provisional Governor Johnson has gone to Columbus, Georgia, to practice law.

George W. Kendall has come back to the New Orleans Picayune.

About thirty commanders of vessels destroyed by the Alabama have already been summoned as witnesses for the government in the approaching trial of Captain Semmes.

A young lady who was to have been married on Christmas day—Miss T. Denman by name—was killed in Memphis recently, by her clothes becoming entangled in the machinery of a mill she was visiting.

The Louisville correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette has just seen a Kentucky farmer in the cars, who had not heard of Mr. Lincoln's death or the emancipation of the slaves.

A bill has been introduced into the Tennessee Legislature, providing for a marble statue of Andrew Jackson, to be placed in the Capitol of the State of Tennessee, and upon which shall be inscribed, "The Federal Union, it must and shall be preserved."

The University of Montpelier France, has just conferred the title of Bachelor of Letters on a young girl only twenty-six years of age, who has passed all the examinations and obtained the first prize for a little theme. This is the fourth time this degree has been conferred on women within three years, by different universities in that country.

A Washington correspondent writes that he has discovered, in looking about the Capitol, the sofa on which John Quincy Adams died, and suggests that it ought to be in the possession of Massachusetts.

Mississippi is going to furnish her maimed Confederate soldiers with artificial legs.

William Gilmore Simms is making a collection of the leading war poems written in the South during the war.

The Springfield (Ill.) State Register says:—"White corn is now selling on our streets at 35 cents per bushel, and red and yellow at from 30 to 33 cents.

In the event of the death of President Johnson, in the interval of 1868, Mr. Foster, as he now stands, would become President of the United States.

Dry goods are very low in Galveston on account of the market being overstocked, and specie currency is the only money used.

Stewart, the New York dry-goods prince, owns four theatres.

The London Times approves Secretary McCulloch's financial report.

It may be said of some teamsters that they team with oaths.

The female clerks in Washington counted $330,000,000 last year and stole not a dollar.

The Great Eastern will, in June, 1866, proceed to lay the new Atlantic cable and take up the old one. Constant tests of the latter show it to be in a perfect condition.

Four million of bricks are required for the new Galt House, at Louisville, and these will not equal the number its guests will carry off in their hats in the course of a few years.

Authentic information has been received at Washington, from the planting States, showing that vigorous efforts are being made to produce a cotton crop the coming year.

The total number of United States soldiers now on duty in Alabama is about eight thousand.

The present Mayor of Mobile, says a Georgia paper, seems determined upon cleaning that city of vagrants. A short time since he arrested all such as could show no visible means of support; now he proposes to arrest all steamboat Captains who bring such persons to the city.

An editorial in the San Antonio, Texas, Herald urges, and with a good deal of plausibility, that the debt of that State shall not be repudiated, on the ground that there is nothing expressed on the face of any Treasury warrant issued by the State of Texas, that the debt was created for the benefit of the rebellion.

Three venerable ladies still survive who were of the choir of young girls that, dressed in white, greeted Washington as he entered Trenton in 1789, on his way to assume the Presidency, and who strewed his pathway with flowers. One (whose name we regret we have been unable to learn) yet lives in Trenton; another is the mother of the Hon. Mr. Chesnut, formerly Senator from South Carolina, and the third, Mrs. Sarah Hand, resides in Cape May county, N. J.

The Paraguayan invasion of the Argentine Confederation in South America has resulted in an entire failure.

The British Association for the advancement of Science have discovered that the larynx of the negro is very different from the white man's.

Mr. Peter Ormrod, a Manchester cotton spinner, has taken upon himself the task of repairing his parish church at a cost of $150,000.

UNWHOLESOME FOR THE NEGRO.—Mr. S. G. Burton, of the Indiana Legislature, in a speech before that body, a few days since, said emphatically: "If left to me, Mr. Speaker, I would, by a system of "unfriendly legislation," render the political atmosphere of Indiana so extremely uncomfortable for negroes, that it would be unhealthy for them to remain in our midst, and much to their interest and advantage to emigrate. Especially would I make it so for the "unconstitutional niggers," or such as are here in violation of our State Constitution, and without authority of law. If they should refuse to emigrate in spite of this legislation, they should be known and recognized in society only as "hewers of wood and drawers of water."—Augusta Constitutionalist.

Lawyers in Memphis.

Several distinguished Lawyers of North Carolina have recently located in Memphis, Tenn., including Judge HEATH, Hon. D. K. MCRAE, Mr. LEWIS, late of Raleigh, and perhaps others; also, Col. LANDON C. HAYNES, late a citizen of this place, from East Tennessee as a refugee. We regret the loss of so many distinguished legal gentlemen from the bar of North Carolina, but it is a satisfaction to know, that they will find encouragement and position in the home of their adoption, and will reflect additional honor upon their good mother, the Old North State, who has furnished the best legal talent of the country.—Statesville American.

Troops Mustered Out.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.

Advices from Galveston to the 8th. state, that orders had been issued, mustering out of the service a large number of Regiments doing duty in the State of Texas. It is believed that the number thus mustered out will be about five thousand.

Congress.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.

SENATE.—Mr. Johnson made a speech, denying the power of Congress to declare against the States. It could suppress insurrection, but not hold the South as conquered territory.

HOUSE.—Mr. Rogers made an argument against negro suffrage in the District of Columbia.

Mr. Farnsworth favored the bill, and said that an impartial suffrage would be the only guarantee of a proper state of things South.

Trial of Semmes.

Jan. 11, 1866.

The trial of Semmes is delayed by the absence of Commodore Winslow, one of the most important witnesses, who sailed a short time since for the Gulf. His arrival is looked for at an early day.

If You are threatened with Pneumonia, read the following from Capt. W. P. Davis, of Petersburg, Virginia:

'Sympathy for the suffering prompts me to certify that my servant man was suffering in the last stage of Pneumonia throwing up matter and blood in large quantities; his case was considered hopeless, so much so, that there was no medical prescription used for his recovery; I regarded him as good as dead. Hearing of the great cures made by the SOUTHERN HEPATIC PILLS, I thought that I would try an experiment on him; without any hope of success however. I gave the Pills in large doses; in a short time, to my great surprise, there was a change for the better I continued giving them to him until he became a perfectly sound man. He is now attending to his work with as much strength and vigor as he ever did. With his case, and what I have seen and heard of the good effect of these Pills, I do most earnestly recommend them as the best family medicine I have ever seen or used."

Desirable Farm for Sale.

THE PLANTATION SITUATED ABOUT TWO and a half miles from the village of Magnolia on the Wilmington and Weldon R. R., between that place and Kenansville, and known as "Barbacue," is offered for sale. The tract contains 380 acres, 100 of which are cleared and have been under cultivation, producing excellent Corn, Wheat, potatoes, &c. A portion of the land is also well adapted to the culture of cotton. An inexhaustible bed of Marl, a large spring of as good water as can be found in the State, and a never failing stream, running through the center of the cleared land are among the attractions of the place.

The timbered portion of the land being nearest the Rail Road and the entire place being easy of access to a first rate market, make it a highly desirable location for growing produce, raising stock and selling timber. Any one having the cash, can procure a bargain by applying immediately to

An Ordinance to Provide Revenue for the Year Eighteen Hundred and Sixty-five.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained by the delegates of the people of North Carolina in Convention assembled, and it is hereby ordained by the authority of the same, That the sheriffs of this State collect in their respective counties in the existing national currency, and pay over to the Public Treasurer before the first day of February, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, taxes on the subjects and persons, and according to the rates hereinafter set forth, these taxes applying and operating during the twelve months next preceding the first day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-six.

SEC. 9. On every bowling alley, whether called a nine or ten pin alley, or by any other name, fifty dollars.

SEC. 10. On every livery stable, or place where horses are kept for hire, twenty-five dollars.

SEC. 11. On every retailer by a measure less than a quart of spirituous liquor, wine or cordial, or malt liquors, seventy-five dollars for each place where such retailing may be carried on: Provided, however, That in all cases in which a license has been granted to any retailer of spirituous liquors, and he has paid any amount to the sheriff or clerk of the county court of his county for such license, the amount so paid shall be credited to such retailer in the collection of the tax laid by this section: Provided, however, That if any such retailer shall, on or before the first day of November next, have altogether ceased to retail as aforesaid, and shall not again retail during the year, in all such cases, such retailer shall pay a tax of but forty dollars.

SEC. 12. Two per cent. on the amount of all purchases of spirituous liquors, wines or cordials, made in this State, either by wholesale or retail.

SEC. 14. Five per cent. on the gross amount received by any Express Company for the carriage or transportation in this State of any package, article or thing.

SEC. 15. On each bale of cotton, or hogshead of tobacco, or on every two hundred dollars' worth of manufactured tobacco, of the growth of this State, held or owned in this State or elsewhere at any time during the year eighteen hundred and sixty-five, by persons producing the same, a tax of one dollar.

SEC. 16. On each bale of cotton, or hogshead of tobacco, or on every two hundred dollars' worth of manufactured tobacco held or owned in this State, at any time during the year eighteen hundred and sixty-five, by any person other than the producer, without regard to the time or place when or where purchased or otherwise acquired, a tax of two dollars.

SEC. 20. All cotton, tobacco, rosin, tar, and other articles or things specifically taxed by this ordinance, and all such articles or things which are taxed by this ordinance as part of the amount of purchases made during the year eighteen hundred and sixty-five, which may have been destroyed, or of which the owner or purchaser has been deprived of the possession without his consent, shall be exempt from the operation of this ordinance.

SEC. 21. To ascertain the amount of taxes due from any person, company, firm or corporation, the sheriff or his deputy is hereby authorized and empowered to examine, on oath, any person or any member of any firm or company, or any president, agent, or other officer of any company or corporation, and in case any such person shall refuse fully to answer, on oath, such person shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and said sheriff or deputy sheriff shall commit him to prison, unless he shall enter into recognizance with good security, in such sum as shall be required, to appear before the superior court of law of his county at its next term, to answer the charge, and, on conviction, he shall be fined or imprisoned, at the discretion of the court.

SEC. 22. It shall be the duty of the sheriff, or his deputy, to demand payment of the taxes by this ordinance imposed, from the parties owing the same, as promptly as may be practicable; and if such taxes shall not be paid within twenty days after such demand, it shall be lawful for such sheriff, by himself or his deputy, to proceed to collect such taxes, with ten per cent. additional thereto, by distraint and sale of goods, chattels, or effects of the delinquent tax payers, and use all other remedies prescribed in the Revised Code against delinquent tax payers.

SEC. 23. The persons now acting in the several counties of this State as sheriffs, under the existing Provisional Government, shall, as soon as practicable, summon the justices of the peace appointed by the Provisional Governor for their respective counties, to meet at the courthouse of their several counties on a day certain, and before a majority, or such number of said justices as shall be so assembled, such sheriffs shall enter into the bonds as required by chapter one hundred and five of the Revised Code, entitled "sheriffs," with good security, to be approved by a majority of the justices so assembled, and deliver such bonds to the clerks of the county courts heretofore appointed by the justices aforesaid, and thereupon such sheriffs are empowered and directed to collect the taxes imposed or laid by this ordinance, under the provisions, and subject to the pains and penalties, set forth in the chapter of the Revised Code above referred to, except in such particulars as are otherwise provided for in this ordinance: Provided, however, That if the persons referred to as acting sheriffs refuse or decline to enter into the bonds required, then, and in that event, the justices aforesaid may appoint some other person to qualify and act as sheriff under the provisions of this ordinance, who shall enter into bond as aforesaid.

SEC. 24. The several sheriffs shall file with the clerks of the county courts of their respective counties, the names of the persons from whom they shall have collected any tax under this ordinance, annexing to the name of each tax payer the amount collected from him, with careful additions of the whole, showing the aggregate amount collected, which statement he shall subscribe and verify by affidavit before such clerk in the words following: "I swear that the foregoing statement truly sets forth the name of each individual, firm and corporation from which I have collected taxes, and the amount paid by each of them, under the ordinance of the Convention, entitled an ordinance to provide revenue for the year eighteen hundred and sixty-five," ratified the eighteenth day of October, eighteen hundred and sixty-five.—All sums which may have been received by any sheriff, or clerk of any court, in the name of the State, as taxes, fines, forfeitures or otherwise, shall, if received by the clerk, be paid to the sheriff; and all such sums shall be entered in the statement to be filed by the sheriff as aforesaid, and the clerk shall furnish to the sheriff a certificate, verified by his signature and official seal, showing the total amount of such collections, to be filed by said sheriff with the Public Treasurer when he shall pay over the same to said Treasurer.

SEC. 25. The clerks of said courts shall make a copy of the statement returned by the sheriff, and keep the same posted up in some conspicuous and accessible place in the courthouse, for one month immediately after the filing of the same, and he shall, at all times, allow any tax payer of his county to inspect the original.

SEC. 26. The sheriff shall pay over the money collected as aforesaid by him, less six per cent. where the amount collected is under one thousand dollars, five per cent. where the amount collected is over one thousand dollars, and under two thousand dollars, and four per cent. where the amount is over two thousand dollars, by way of commissions for his services, which he is hereby authorized to retain, to the Public Treasurer, on or before the first day of February, eighteen hundred and sixty-six. Any sheriff failing to pay to the Public Treasurer, as aforesaid, shall forfeit to the State one thousand dollars, and the Public Treasurer shall report such defaulting sheriff to the solicitor for the judicial district in which such sheriff resides, and such solicitor shall, at the next term of the superior court of the county in which such sheriff resides, move for judgment for the amount due from such sheriff, and also the penalty aforesaid, and the presiding judge is hereby empowered to render judgment in favor of the State against such defaulting sheriff, and the sureties on his bond, for the amount so due by him, including said penalty, without other notice to such sheriff or his sureties than is given by the delinquency of such sheriff.

SEC. 27. For his settlement with the Treasurer, the sheriff shall be paid by the Treasurer five dollars for each day he may be necessarily engaged therein, and four dollars for every thirty miles of twice the estimated distance from his home to the seat of government by the most usual way travelled.

SEC. 28. That five hundred copies of this ordinance be printed for distribution by the Treasurer among the sheriffs and clerks of the different counties of this State. [Ratified in Convention the 18th day of October, 1865.]

JAMES H. MOORE, Secretary of the Convention.
R. C. BADGER, Assistant Secretary.

Mixed Metaphors.

An exchange thus ties grass across the path of a running neighbor:

In a recent article the N. Y. Herald says: "Events with mighty strides rush on like railroad cars. It is difficult to conceive how a thing on wheels can take mighty strides. Gigantic strides and "seven-leagued boots" go well together, but car wheels and long steps don't exactly hitch. We have, indeed, of late, often heard of cars "jumping off the track," but such performances are abnormal, and do not mitigate the present case. Still, the Herald's metaphor is quite as good as that of the eminent Irish orator who "smelt a rat," "saw him floating in the atmosphere," and declared his fixed intention of "nipping him in the bud."

"To take arms against a sea of troubles" has long ago been resolved into the vision of a cholerio man drawing his word to fight water; or to escape so unlikely a thing, the line has been amended so as to make it read "a siege of troubles." But the sea is something more than water. It is boundless to vision—it is, more than any other object, the symbol of vastness, immensity, indefinite quantity. These are not attributes of water, which is of the same chemical constitution, and is just as wet in a thimble as in an ocean. The Bible poets had a nicer discrimination than the British critics. "As the waters cover the sea" is a sacred simile in which the water and the sea are clearly and sublimely distinguished. We suppose that troubles so vast in number and power as to make a brave man hesitate whether to succumb entirely to them would be a sea of troubles, without involving any notions of fluidity, transparency, etc. However that may be, the reader has long since adopted the simple rule of Addison for testing the accuracy of a simile—viz: fancy a picture of it—and will apply it to the following, which with some hesitation, we venture to reproduce from memory. It occurred in the course of a somewhat fervent editorial article in a certain newspaper upon (we think) the occasion of the report of the celebrated Nebraska bill from the Committee on Territories in the Senate:

"The apple of discord is now fairly in our midst; and if not nipped in the bud, it will burst forth in a conflagration which will deluge society in an earthquake of bloody apprehension."
